DEATH CLAIMS NOTED PHYSICIAN

DR. D. ELBRA MONROE IS BURIED TUESDAY

Persons who rave and rant against Daylight Saving Time had their prototype 52 years ago when the invention of Standard time stored up more righteous indignation and resistance to change than "fast time" does in the general store. Those who find time under the Daylight Saving Time both intolerable and sacrilegious either were not living prior to November 18, 1883, or have forgotten the "good old days" of "sun" or local time.

Standard time with its one hour time belts dividing the United States into four different time zones—Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific—is only 52 years old. Before Standard Time there were more than 5 standards of time used in the United States and Canada. "Sun" or "local" time and "railroad" time often were different in the same community. Traveling by the watch was the next thing to impossible because almost no two cities had the same time.

Next to the calendar and the accurate time piece the greatest contribution in this field is Standard Time. It is difficult to see how this complex civilization could be possible without it. Rapid transportation could not.

William Fredrick Allen, editor of "The Official Guide of the Railways," was the author of the system, which congress made law on March 13, 1883, after a General Time Convention at St. Louis had approved it.

Oddly enough the same criticisms and objections were directed against Standard Time in 1883 as are now directed against Daylight Saving Time. It took years for some people to become accustomed to getting their time from the Naval Observatory at Washington instead of from an old fashioned "time ball" or from the sun.

Old wills used to begin "I, John Smith, being of sound and disposing mind, memory and understanding, do make, publish and declare," etc. Nowadays the faculties are omitted. Doubtless they are assumed to be intact. Yet there is something symbolic about the passing of memory from one of the most solemn pages in the book of man's life. It has fallen precipitously from its high estate.

Memory training no longer plays the part in the school curriculum it used to do. The older generation can look wistfully back in the days when boys and girls had to learn a quotation a day, and labored over that skeleton of history—in more senses than one—the tables of kings and queens and battles. Minds are still stored with waifs and strays from that period. The tendrils of memory cling to them through the years, long after their roles in history have faded into the fog.

New principles have been introduced into the processes of education. Reason was enthroned and later "self expression." It is argued that any moron can memorize but thinking requires brains.

But on what meat does the reason in this work-a-day world feed, if not on the things remembered? A good memory lightens almost every labor and in some fields of human endeavor it is the difference between success and failure. And memorizing is the best builder of memories. The new education is not necessarily an improvement of the old.

Some literal minded folks think that parents make a mistake when they tell the children the pretty old fable about Santa Claus. When the little ones find out that it is all just a myth, it is claimed, they lose faith in the veracity of their parents.

Children, however, are not literal. They live in a world of imaginings. (Turn To Page 6)

The time to aid the Will Rogers Memorial Foundation has been extended to December 15th, it was announced by Stanley H. Swift of the Cameron Theatre, who has been named to direct the memorial program in Milam County.

In New York State a gift has been made—a million dollar hospital and with it $500,000 to maintain it. The Rogers memorial will be a permanent and large fund for crippled children—children without opportunity—that their small bodies may be rehabilitated and their lives made useful and happy. No set amount is necessary to give. Rather would the Foundation direction have many small gifts from the American people.

GYMNASIUM CONTRACT IS LET IN CAMERON

Contract has been awarded to C. C. Ramsey of Waco for the construction of a high school gymnasium in Cameron at a meeting of the city council here last week.

The cost will be between $40,000 and $53,000 it was announced by E. A. Perrin, superintendent of the schools.

The Ramsey bid was one of the three received at the office of Dan Tyson, city secretary. The plant will be one of the most modern in Texas and will bring needed additional facilities to the schools.

The building will furnish a court for basketball tournaments also.

It was announced by W. A. Morrison, city attorney, that a bond election would be necessary to supply the local funds to match PWA allotments.

NO CHARGES FILED IN FATAL ACCIDENT

No charges have been filed against Harry Rogers whose truck killed Ella Cooks, negro girl, Saturday night and injured three others on the highway east of the city.

Rogers was permitted to go home Saturday night. Driving while intoxicated, a charge first announced, has not as yet been filed. There has been conflicting accounts of the accident, it was said.

The truck, driven by Rogers, crashed into a wagon near the Lamkin store. Rogers was hurt. He was taken from another truck here by Deputy Sheriff Dan Gunn and treated by Dr. J. L. Denson.

Harry Rogers was tried in December, 1934 for murder and given a 5 year suspended sentence for shooting to death Garnet Bearden on May 26, 1933 in Milam county.

All American ?

Douglas Looke, St. Mary's University of San Antonio fullback, weighs only 150 but his speed and drive and pass-snatching proclivities have earned him national recognition. Elmer Layden, after seeing him perform in Washington against Catholic University, nominated Looke All-American. He comes from Crossett, Arkansas.

Repeal Election On December 5th

An election to determine whether Milam County's eighteen year old prohibition law will remain to prohibit sale of liquors or be repealed, has been called for December 5th. It was announced by Judge Jeff T. Kemp, following a meeting of the Commissioners Court here last Friday.

A petition signed by the required number of voters was filed with the court. If repeal is voted, Cameron will be wet, it was announced. Gause precinct and possibly another in the southern part of the county will remain dry, having voted dry prior to the general county wide poll in 1917. On August 24th this year the county voted for repeal.

NOT OUR FAULT

The Herald is issued as usual this week but no mail is delivered on Thanksgiving Day.

Dr. D. Elbra Monroe, 51, widely known physician and native of Milam county, died at 2:55 p. m. Monday November 25, 1935 at the Cameron Hospital following an illness of two weeks.

Death resulted from bacterial infection from a carbuncle on his neck, which produced poisoning of the blood stream. He had recently been in a San Antonio hospital, returning to Cameron last week. His condition grew steadily worse and from the home of his brother, Frank Monroe, he was removed to the Cameron Hospital at noon Sunday. Due to excessive work in his practice his condition was weakened by the infection and although eminent Texas physicians and surgeons were at his bedside constantly, death won in the unequal struggle.

A blood transfusion was resorted to at 5 p. m. Sunday, his brother supplying the blood. Dr. Graves of Houston arrived late Sunday.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock with interment in Oak Hill cemetery. Rev. J. Coy Williams of the Methodist church held the services at the residence of Frank Monroe where the doctor had made his home for years. Rev. O. C. Acree of the Presbyterian church assisted in the services. Rain fell during the funeral hour, but as the cortege, one of the largest ever seen in this city, wound its way to the burial plot, the clouds lifted and the sun shone brightly.

Dr. Monroe was a Mason and a member of the American Legion having served in the Medical Corps of the army in France.

He is survived by his father, an aged pioneer physician, Dr. D. Monroe, now ill at the home; a brother, (Turn To Page 12)

DR. MONROE As Known by his Life Long Friend OXSHEER SMITH

The above brief account chronicles the passing of Cameron's most useful citizen and Milam County's most beloved son—whose every act and deed bore the stamp of a southern gentleman, whose life was an example of achievement and success, one to be pointed to with pride as the goal for rising young men. Coming from the South's best, good blood never deteriorated in his veins, but his noblest ancestor could look on him with justifiable pride—a wealthy man born to serve—truly God's nobleman. On the occasion of the anniversary of Mr. Booth, the founder of the Salvation Army, mindful of his life spent in upbuilding the wrecks of humanity throughout the world, the Western Union Telegraph Company tendered him the privilege of sending any message he wished to every office in civilization. An expectant world awaited a lengthy message. He had the company to flash only one word: "Others." This word is the biography of our Great.

Educated at Cameron, University of Texas, Johns Hopkins Medical School of Baltimore—America's finest, the school of Dr. Osler, Dr. Barker, the head of English speaking medicine. This great medical school required a reading knowledge of French, something Elbra had not included in the courses of study in the University of Texas. His application for entrance was held for advisement. Being ever an honor man, his petition was granted and the entrance requirement of French waived with the provision that it be made up by outside study during his four years at the medical school. His work proved to be so brilliant that this requirement was waived.

Four years passes on. The Cameron boy has again distinguished himself. Being an honor man, he is accorded the privilege of selecting the hospital and city in which to spend his internship. "If anyone compel thee to go one mile, go with him twain." Here again he traveled the second mile (the broad beautiful pasture wherein lies the opportunity of service) and spent more than twice the usual time in New York hospitals. It seemed he would never finish preparation. In answer to the question, "Dr. how much longer is Elbra going to school?" his then aging father replied, "I will send him as long as he wants to go." He then related his own experience after graduation Honor man, the same as his son, and feeling still incompetent to practice, returned to his medical school another year to volunteer his services as teacher and to care for the school's charity practice. He said, "After that year I felt competent to practice medicine," exhibiting the same conscientious regard for his patients and the profession that was later to characterize his distinguished son. Upon Elbra's returning to Cameron (Turn To Page 12)

BOOK REVIEW HERE ON DECEMBER 3RD

"Spring Comes On Forever," is the title of Bess Streeter Aldrich's latest novel, to be reviewed by Mrs. J. Coy Williams at the Methodist church December 2 at 7:45 p. m., and December 3 at 3:45 p. m.

This review is to be given under the auspices of the Young People's Department of the church. The program planned for the occasion promises to be an entertaining one, with a variety of musical numbers, and with certain important events of the story being pantomimed by the young people.

The action of the novel covers the period from 1866 to the present day, and the pantomimes of the romances of several generations will add to the vividness of the presentation.

The proper treatment for a bilious child

ANY mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage. Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, destroy all hopes of restoring regularity. A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use a liquid laxative. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. The liquid laxative they generally use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Any druggist has it.

RAIL BLAZING is never a bed of roses. It's a tough job . . . but it must be done, for it opens the way to better living . . . progress . . . bigger opportunities.

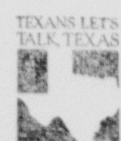

Let's take a brief summary of the situation in Texas as it looked in 1912:

1. Hundreds of Texas communities had no form of electric service. Hundreds of others had part time service only; or depended upon uncertain and inadequate sources of power.
2. There was no uniformity in existing services. Electric appliances and other equipment that could be used in one community could not be used in other communities.
3. Texas farms had none of the benefits of electric service.
4. Rates for electric service were usually based on the number of "drop lights" in the home, and were so high that they made electricity a luxury, and limited its use to a few people.
5. Texas communities needed industrial pay rolls. Industry, on the other hand, needed adequate, economical and dependable electric power which was not available.
6. Obviously isolated power plants were too costly, and not dependable enough to do the big job which Texas conditions had cut out for electric power.

This was the situation which inspired the founders of the Texas Power & Light Company to pioneer an entirely new type of electric power service in Texas.

It was a tough job . . . yes . . . but it had to be done if Texas were to have the balanced development for which she was ready.

How that job was done is a part of Texas history. In the first place it called for a huge sum of money with which to build transmission lines and suitable generating equipment. "Doubting Thomas" said, "It can't be done."

THANKSGIVING DAY

At Plymouth in 1621, Governor Bradford made provisions for a day of Thanksgiving and Prayer at the gathering of the first harvest. Three days were spent in celebrating thanks.

From Plymouth the custom spread to the colonies, until in time each governor of each colony issued an annual Thanksgiving Day Proclamation.

We should be thankful to those who set aside a day in order that we might pause and give thanks on Thanksgiving Day. Let us all thank God for the wonderful blessings He has bestowed upon us, for He is the one who knows what is best for us.

On Thanksgiving Day think of what God has granted you, and turn to Him for thanks on this great day. We are thankful to the trustees for giving us two days in which to celebrate Thanksgiving.

SENIORS OF 1935

Oh, the Senior students of S. G. H., Although they are few in number,
That shall never be put asunder.
We expect them to win in this game
of life,

Though its rules may often seem trying,
And at the end when the great whistle blows,
We expect to see their colors flying.

Irene Fulcher is first mentioned, in line,
She'll play forward, and true to her aim;

Then, when the game's finished, and she counts her scores, Many "ringers" will be marked by her name.

Ruby Alta Starnes is second, I think, She'll jump high at her chances to win,
And when to the Great Referee she reports,

High-point-man will be the title she will win.

Dorothy Anness is third, in the listing of names;
She'll shoot high in the game of life,
too,
And when our tasks prove too great, She'll be sent in to take the places of me and you.

Then Lonzo Johnson comes next I believe.

He'll be captain of his life, I'm sure; He'll guide it successfully toward its goal,
And to the last winning score he'll endure.

Claude Robinson, most surely, must not be left out;

His passes will be long and not slow,
And when trouble tries tripping, he will just dribble round, His playing will prove worthy, I know.

And last in the line of Seniors, am I, Allyne Faulkner who has written these lines,

With the teamwork of others, I'll do my part
To make the great goal VICTORY sublime!

So, though petty fouls mark our progress along life's path, We can show the true breed of the sport,

Play the game through, but smile to the end;
Then to the Great Referee we'll be proud to report.

TEXAS FLAG

We are very proud of our new Texas flag, which is hanging in our auditorium. It gives us a Texas spirit.

The flag is made of red, white and blue flannel and was made by one of the Home Economics girls, namely: Irene Fulcher. The expenses were paid by the P. T. A. and we are very glad the organization saw fit to give our school the flag.

INTERESTING THINGS TO BE FOUND IN THE PRIMARY ROOM

Upon entering the primary room one of the first things to attract your attention is the decorations on the wall. The decorations consist of health posters, posters of thanks and flags. The decorations on the windows are pictures of birds sitting on limbs of trees, which hold fruit. In the windows are many beautiful boxes with flowers of many kids.

Next to attract the eye is the little sand table made by the beginners. On one side of the table, blue paper is arranged in the sand to represent water. There are Indian tents not far from the water, and Indians are to be found sitting in front of their tents. Some are playing with birds; others are in their canoes on the water. On the other side of the sand table we find Pilgrims; the Pilgrim church and their homes. There is a long table filled with fruit which separates the Indian scene from the Pilgrims scene. This table of fruit represents the Thanksgiving Feast.

There are pictures of pilgrim people going from their homes to church and to the Thanksgiving Feast. The homes of the pilgrims were made by the little beginners out of pasteboard and logs and also the baskets of fruit were made by the youngsters and are made of clay.

The room has a pleasant atmosphere, and it shows much activity and work.

TEACHERS MEETING

The teachers held their regular meeting Thursday November 21.

The discussions were under the following heads and by the following teachers:

Miss Griffith—The Problem of Individualization.

Miss Camp—The Place of Extra Curriculum Activities.

Miss Culp—What I Am Individualizing, the Problems, and How I Am Overcoming Them.

Mr. Wood—Curriculum Revision and for Curriculum Enrichment.

Miss Wofford—Criticism and Effects of Individual Technique.

We, as teachers, endorse the idea of a Milam County Teachers Association as was organized at Cameron Monday night November 18.

We feel that the professional and social gains will much overbalance the little financial loss that it will take to sponsor the Association. "Together we stand; divided we fall."

OUR TOWN

They constantly read about magic carpets, elves and gnomes, but that does not lead them to distrust all literature. They have to learn when the world is telling fables and when it is talking seriously.

The Santa Claus story had it that the genial old citizen of the North Pole brought his gifts "to good children." It was literally false, but essentially true. We have learned that if people are good and kind and helpful, gifts come to them far more wonderful than any that old Santa brought with his reindeer.

When people do their Christmas shopping, they should realize, particularly if they are a little late about it, that the store people are doing about two or three times as much work as usual, and that the shoppers must be prepared to do a little waiting before they can expect service. Those who cannot wait a few minutes until the earlier comers are served, should rush out and do their holiday shopping immediately.

We must all keep good natured through the Christmas rush. The store clerks who can keep their temper when customers are cross and grouchy, are headed for promotion. They show capacity for success in retail trade. And the customers who are tolerant and do not find needless fault, are the ones who get the best service in the end.

50 POUND CALF CELEBRATES FIRST BIRTHDAY

Methuselah, who will be a year old the 30th of December, is 49 inches long, 32 inches high and weighs 50 pounds. BRYANT STATION CLUB NOTES

"Most of the salt must be soaked from the brined cucumbers before making them into sour, sweet or mixed pickles. A vinegar of not less than 40 grain or 4 per cent should be used. Granulated sugar is preferred as brown sugar tends to darken the pickles. A well-cured pickle is an even olive color. Spices should be tied in a bag so that they may be removed before packing," stated Miss Bertha Fae Strange, County Home Demonstration Agent in a demonstration of the usage for cured cucumbers, at the Bryant Station H. D. Club Thursday, November 14th in the home of Mrs. Charlie Williams.

There were 11 members and 1 visitor. "Keeping Up" is the program subject November 21st, with Mrs. J. Y. Tyler hostess. Visitors welcome.

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

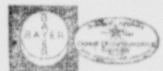

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

from New York, the elder Dr. Monroe, feeling his life's work completed, retired from practice with the pardonable pride that must have been, and is, his in giving this generation such a son.

Not long ago Dr. Elbra was asked, "Dr. how many lives have you brought into this world?" "I have no idea. I wish I had kept account but you know I spent two years in a New York Baby Hospital where a child was born every few minutes." A doctor friend said, "When in trouble, I always went to Dr. Monroe for consultation and help." When he asked what he charged him or his patient, the answer was, "Not one cent."

In a short time, the modest unassuming young doctor came into his merited own. On one hot memorable August day he came into the bank, his bank, and laid a telegram on the writer's desk and said, "What would you do about it?" It was a wire from the New York Post Graduate Hospital offering him the position of Resident Surgeon. "Well Elbra, I don't know anything about it. Tell me what it is." "It's the most prominent medical position in New York. It pays $5,000.00 a year and keep (room, board, laundry, car, etc.)" "Well, what became of the man who held the position?" "Dr. Haydn accepted a medical connection that will pay him $100,000.00 a year. I had that position once for four months while he took leave of absence for a European trip. This is the third time they have offered it to me and they will not offer it to me again. They still remember me and my work but other men will be coming along and I will be forgotten." "Why do you hesitate?" "My father has heart trouble and that usually comes up at night and I sleep in the same room with him by being near him I believe I can prolong his life ten or fifteen years." He looked out to the street where some men were repairing the sewer and said, "If it were not for him I would be doing that kind of work." "Well, Elbra, what's the answer?" "I see but one." He sat down, used one of the bank's telegram blanks and wired, closing the door to a brilliant metropolitan career tendered him for the third time.

Time marches on. The World War—The young unassuming doctor volunteers—Major in the army—foreign service—only to return at the earliest moment to again minister to the suffering of his native county and city. Success upon success, and with it ever-spreading fame, increasing clientele, touching the lives of more and more. All called him professionally, only to learn that they also loved him.

Sixteen months ago, one of his closest friends had a terrible auto accident near Waco—broken bones, wounds, and all the agony a human can have. He was not summoned. He came, ministered for months, and brought his friend back from the land of deepening shadows. Typical of him (I think so much of him I feel like spelling it with a capital H), no bill was mailed until seven months after the accident. It was so ridiculously small the amount was doubled and inclosed in the following letter:

"My check enclosed, a partial payment on a debt that I owe you, is more than you asked of 'its present weight and fineness' but it is infinitesimal in comparison with the debt of gratitude that is mine. Friendship, alone, can account for the voluntary abandonment of your practice, your trips to Waco, the carefully constant, considerate attention through months—including that eventful September night through which you so faithfully steered amid the encircling gloom.

"It is another evidence of the love of my boyhood friend for which I am grateful."

On many occasions he was asked to charge more than his extremely modest fees. His answer was always, "I charge all I want to charge."

Only Friday a week ago he came into the bank with a bandage on his neck and a rising temperature and to his inquiring friends "It is only a carbuncle." A few days before he had asked his patient to go to bed with one but he himself continued to serve others. He returned Tuesday night from San Antonio where he had gone to consult a skin specialist. His porter met the night train, took him to his office where he gave himself a thorough physical examination. With a high temperature he was now forced to bed.

In inner chamber talks, Elbra frequently said he could not expect to live long—that his physical make up was that of the shorter life side of his family. On one of these occasions, he said "If death is, as I think, a long sleep, I shall welcome it. If there is another life, it is different from what we know and if it is given as a reward, I have not merited it." An unassuming man always—even almost humble—singularly the truly great never regard themselves as such. Portraying the man he was, he continued and said that he had failed in life and that his going would mean nothing. His friend answered with the question: "Do you recall the song: 'Forgotten'—Well that expresses what all think of you."

It is said a man is never good or great to his secretary, but the little woman that had been with him 16 years, has never ceased to sing his praises—and in choking voice said that, on Thursday morning he sent for her and said:

"Miss Carrie, close up the office. I am through. Tell the patients to get them another doctor."

True to the highest traditions of his profession that a doctor's secrets must be inviolate, he told his faithful secretary "If anything happens to me, burn my records."

Friday the news was leaking out that Dr. Monroe was very sick—Saturday that he was worse. Sunday morning the city was horrified. It spread like a fire alarm—"Dr. Monroe is dying."

Niley Smith, returning Sunday afternoon, phoned and said, "Is it true?"

"Yes, Cameron is panic stricken."

"Don't say city—say County."

Every walk of life was stirred—reminded of their heritage. The little girl at the cafe, where for years he had eaten breakfast, rather than disturb the family at such an early hour, said, "I would gladly go for him. I mean nothing for the community and he means so much—why couldn't it be me?" The ice boy as he delivered ice to the business house said, "Have you heard about Dr. Monroe? It is the worst thing that has happened to this county."

An old man, whose family had known no doctors except the Monroes to his son who came to talk over some matters, said with halting speech, "I can't talk to you tonight. I feel like I had lost a son." The current was flowing deep and it stirred to its depths.

At the hospital, all was for him—nurses moved swiftly, silently. How could so many white angels be near—all with the same anxious worried faces—why not—He was their idol and being unmarried; each could, in the secret chamber of her heart, claim him for her own. While a noted man of medicine was bending over the stricken one, a scientific man standing by said, "Dr. Graves, you don't know it, but you are examining a man as great as you are."

During the last twenty-four hours of his life, the hospital halls were filled with those whose lives he had touched, the companions of life's journey—each feeling that a great part of him was leaving and that life hereafter would never be the same. Time would be divided by before and after.

Men from every station in life hung on the reports from the almost sacred sick room. The voices of the friends were not always firm and quivering lips and faltering tones of strong men told that they were moved to the depths. One remarked, "Milam county never saw anything like this before." Giles McDermott, replied with choking voice "Milam County never had anything like this happen before."

It was truly as He once said, in describing the greatest anguish of the soul, "Bowed down with grief like one who mourns for his mother."

In the home of his brother, Frank, was the aged father confined to his bed by the infirmities of age and injuries in a fall, and it was fitting that the service was conducted near the valiant old doctor who had endured so much—given so much. Never was anything more appropriate than the following poem, read by Rev. J. Coy Williams during his service:

ABOU BEN ADHEM

Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase!)

Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,

And saw within the moonlight in his room,

Making it rich, and like a lily in bloom,

An Angel writing in a book of gold: Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold,

And to the Presence in the room he said,

"What writest thou?" This vision raised its head,

And with a look made of all sweet accord

Answered, "The names of those who love the Lord,"

"And is mine one?" said Abou. "Nay, not so,"

Replied the Angel. Abou spoke more low,

But cheerly still; and said, "I pray thee, then,

Write me as one that loves his fellow-men."

The Angel wrote and vanished. The next night

It came again with a great wakening light,

And showed the names whom love of God has blessed,

And, lo, Ben Adhem's name led all the rest!"

Once it was said at the grave of another:

"He added to the sum of human joy; and were every one, to whom he did some loving service, to bring a blossom to his grave, he would sleep tonight beneath a wilderness of flowers."

At the grave viewing the profusion of floral offerings, a lady remarked

"Each flower there is a token of love."

And he sleeps beneath a wilderness of flowers.

In our city of the dead sleeps the moulding dust of those, who, for almost a hundred years, added to the advancement of Texas and Milam County—doctors, lawyers, business men, and those from every walk of life—but never did a more benefactor of his fellow man, a more perfect, polished gentleman, a cleaner character pass through the portals of Oak Hill Cemetery.
